Outstanding Students

By BILLY CHURCH

(Editor's Note — A regular feature of the COLLEGIAN is "The Top Twenty of the Semester". We make no claims that these are the only persons deserving such an award, but we do proclaim that each one of these has accomplished something this summer, and deserves to be recognized. The selections of these students for this honor is based on conduct, personality, co-operation, and participation in campus activities. A limit had to be made in this selecting from the many worthwhile students on campus—we hope you will agree with the selection!)

TERRY BAGGETT

Terry Baggett has been selected as one of the twenty out-

He practiced law for several years before going to Charleston, S. C., as a professor of English in the high school, and in 1947 he joined the faculty at Wofford. He became dean in 1953 and has served in that capacity since that time. He was acting president in 1957-58.

Dr. Covington is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, Sigma Delta Pi, Blue Key, and Sigma Chi, social fraternity.

PAUL BAIN

Paul Bain is one of the top students on our campus. He is the guy who never meets a stranger and who possesses a vibrant personality. EDITORIALS—

Editor States Policy

The purpose of this editorial is to put before the students and faculty of JSC the aims and ideas of the COLLEGIAN for next year.

It has been brought to my attention this summer that perhaps we should enlarge our scope of news coverage. Striving to comply with suggestions, we will have regular meetings of the newspaper staff. At these meetings, assignments will be given for stories and articles to be included in the following week's paper.

With the aid of these meetings and an efficient staff, we hope to reach every organization and individual on campus. Also with an earlier deadline of (2:30 Tuesday afternoons), we hope to spend more time revising, compiling and editing news material.

The paper will also welcome letters to the editor. Through this medium, any student or faculty member may state opinions which may or may not agree with others' view. They do not necessarily reflect the opinion of the editor, or staff members everytime (although many times they do).

I have mentioned only a few of the plans and policies of our newspaper for next year. Our staff welcomes suggestions either verbally or written.

We hope to make the COLLEGIAN a newspaper for the students. It should be respected and contributed to in some way by the students and faculty. With cooperation, this aim will be accomplished.

Thanks

Many thanks to the Student Government Association for their efforts throughout the summer. They have made this one of Jacksonville's nicest summer semesters. Their efforts will not be forgotten soon. It is also very pleasing to note that the SGA has many more activities planned for the fall semester. Although the regular officers will take over this fall, the summer officers will still be working for and with the Student Government.

These are the students that help make Jacksonville State a popular school. We of the Collegian say thanks for a job well done.

Adieu

I have considered it an honor and a privilege to have served in the capacity of editor this summer. I have gained valuable experience and wouldn't trade it for anything. I have thoroughly enjoyed working with Mrs. Coffee a dedicated journalist. Many thanks go to Mr. Opal Lovett for his photography work.

Many times our paper may have seemed to be a little one sided on certain issues, but we printed them as we understood and observed.

We hope you have enjoyed reading the COLLEGIAN as much as we have in preparing it. There will be a few changes in the staff for next year, but most of us will be back and are looking forward to working with you again. The COLLEGIAN wishes you a safe and happy vacation.

Fine Arts Building Next On Agenda

The next building to be erected at Jacksonville State College will house the fine arts division, and in keeping with that department's function, will be one of the most artistic yet constructed on the campus.

Of contemporary design and brick construction, it will stand on a curved drive next to the home management house, and will be curved to conform to its location. A glassed-in foyer will connect the one-story home economics department and a two-story section housing the music and art departments. The front of the foyer will serve as a gallery and small assembly room, and administrative offices will be in the rear.

The home economics department will consist of four sections: foods laboratory, clothing, home economics education and nursery school. The nursery school will have a separate entrance and a playground at the rear.

The music department will have teaching studios, practice rooms, a material center and a large rehearsal hall.

The art department will be on the first floor, below the level of the front entrance, but will be above ground on three sides. It will contain classrooms for painting, design, ceramics, and art history, and laboratory space.

Construction is expected to begin early this Fall.

NOTICE

Permits to register must be completed by returning and transfer students for the first semester 1961-62 no later than Aug. 12. These permits are available in the admissions office. Also dormitory reservations must be made in room 204.

CAP Activities Varied, Many

Members of the Jacksonville Squadron of the Civil Air Patrol are participating in a variety of interesting activities this summer. They are meeting regularly each Tuesday night to complete the training necessary for attending the annual summer encampment at Maxwell Air Force Base, which will be held the week of August 12-19.

The Squadron is also training its members to be a part of the Search and Rescue Team whose purpose is to be available when needed in time of local emergency.

Last week the group enjoyed a wiener roast and swimming party; a large number of guests were present.

Over the past week-end Senior Member Dan Porter, Squadron Communications Officer and Assistant Cadet Training Officer and Assistant Cadet Training Officer, was host, with the assistance of Captain Eugene Burnham, flight officer, to a group of male cadets on a weekend camping trip to Scottsboro, Alabama. In addition to swimming, fishing, boating, and the fun of camping life, the group also had a most interesting experience exploring the Saltpetre Caves there, the only known saltpetre mine in the Confederacy during the Civil War. The second day the Civil Air Patrol airplane from Anniston flew to Scottsboro Airport and took each of the cadets on an air-sight-seeing flight over the area.

Another similar camping trip for the girl cadets is being planned for the near future in the Little River Canyon area, with Mrs. Lucille Webb as hostess.

Students interested in flying, camping, rescue team training, and short wave communications are invited to attend the meetings on Tuesday nights at 7:00 p.m. at the First Methodist Church in the Fanny Crow Classroom.

As long as Jax State has students who will show as much interest in school activities as "Dicky", we will never have to worry about poor school spirit.

ERNESTINE KING

Ernestine King is one of the friendliest girls on campus. She comes from Rainsville, and she graduated from Fort Payne High School. Ernestine was apparently popular in high school too, because she served as vice-president of the Beta Club, president of the Commercial Club, and cheerleader.

Although these activities keep Sandra one of the busiest people on campus, she is never too busy to stop and chat with anyone she sees. Sandra is a person of whom we can be very proud.

Jacksonville State College Lucky Coach Stephenson Stopped By Here

Quite often, through the media of this spot on the COLLEGIAN sports page, synonyms and synomous terms have been expounded upon highly, widely and loudly. Today, such is the menu.

Where would Roy Rogers have been without Trigger? The Lone Ranger without someone to yell "Hiyo Silver"? And certainly where would Jacksonville State's basketball prominence been without Coach Julian W. Stephenson's having stopped by here?

But just and long overdue homage was paid Coach Steve last week when the state legislature okayed a resolution to name College Gym, Coach Julian W. Stephenson Gymnasium. Usually such an honor isn't paid a living citizen, but Coach Steve deserved it most highly and the men down on Goat Hill were of the first to know such.

Coach Steve patrolled Gamecock cage fortunes for 32 glorious years and with his retirement in 1953 went an amazing 588-63 won-lost record! Among giant basketball winning coaches, Coach Steve is Goliath among a kindergarten full of Davids.

COACH JULIAN STEPHENSON and his gym

For Want Of Something To Say...

Tempus fugit! King Football will be restored to his throne shortly, Roger Maris and Mickey Mantle will gasp at how close they came to breaking the great Bambino's homerun record and Metrecal will have "Little Hal" down to the size of a ten-ton Mack truck.

Luttrell Ineligible; Opener Changed

Bullish-running fullback David (Little Toe) Luttrell, built like the proverbial old fire hydrant, will be along the sidelines when the call to Fall-time gridom is sounded. The former Jacksonville High star is ineligible for '1961.

While football has the floor: A check with Head Coach Don Salls recently tells that next Fall's season opening Chattanooga game has been changed from Friday night, September 15th, until Saturday night the 16th. This contest is always played in that Tennessee city.

Attention: Look Out For Ken, "Heart Thief"

A "theft" to challenge that of the famous Brinks Robbery of the '30's has decked our campus. And the fellow who triggered the "job" is Kenneth Boggs.

The 'loot' taken: The heart of everyone who has had the pleasure to get to know him.

Kenneth, 7-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ilus Boggs of Sylvania, has skyrocketed to the top of everyone's popularity hit parade with the speed of the missile that last week projected Gus Grissom into outer space. And he's the nicest little guy you could ever hope to meet.

The blond-haired, second grader is attending school this summer at the Jacksonville Elementary Laboratory School while his Mom is doing undergraduate work. During the regular school term Mrs. Boggs is a 5th grade school teacher at Powell Junior High at Rainsville.

Mr. Boggs, '55 graduate of J.S.C., teaches school at Sylvania and Kenneth explained: "This summer he is farming."

When asked how he liked living on campus, Kenneth reported:

"I like it here. And, I especially like to watch them do construction work." He lives in Glazner Hall with his Mom.

As for his favorite pastimes, Kenneth quickly answered:

"I enjoy riding my bike and playing ball." Every afternoon he can be seen either riding his bike around Glazner or Logan and /or pitching softball with some of the fellows who reside in Logan.

Within the week Kenneth will return to Sylvania to the second grade come Fall. Jacksonville State will return to its regular semester routine. But Master Kenneth Boggs will not be forgotten. He owns a large part of everyone's heart. —Hayes.

Ole 'Graybeard' Enjoyed 'Hayes Stack'

For our little break from this frontiner last week, we'd like to thank our pals, Hondo Wilkes and Hank O'Neal. The former keystone combination of the '59 Gamecocks afforded the 'Basket' his second vacation from this spot in the three years he's reigned as foreman herein. Coach Don Salls pinch-hit last Fall.

That was the second time in 3 years I've fully enjoyed reading "UNDER THE HAYES STACK."

Well, the ice in my glass of Metrecal's melting . . . See ya in the Fall!

To South Dakota— Lovrich, Outstanding Coach And Teacher, Leaving Jax

By HAL HAYES

COLLEGIAN Sports Editor

The man who put the silver lining in the baseball "sky" of Jacksonville State, Coach Frank Lovrich, is leaving. And it's with great sadness the COLLEGIAN bids him farewell.

The loss of Lovrich is two-fold. Not only will Jacksonville State lose an outstanding young teacher and coach, but also the 'Basket' will lose a great friend.

Though only taking a leave-of absence to go to South Dakota and get his doctorate in sociology, it really grieves me to see him go. First of all, when he returns in a year to Jacksonville he says he won't work with baseball, and secondly, the 'Basket' won't be around upon his return.

The sport of the diamond wore a crown of roses during the heyday of Coach J. W. Stephenson at the helm here. Upon his retirement in '53, the sport went into hibernation. The days were dark and cloudy.

The fall of 1957 and things began to look upward for baseball at Jacksonville State. The college had announced the appointment of Frank Lovrich to the faculty as head of the sociology department.

Coach Lovrich had, for six years, played in the old New York Giant baseball chain of minor league teams. He was the likely and most capable choice. The rest is history.

The best won-lost season a Jacksonville nine had ever had under Coach Stephenson was a record of 18 victories and 6 defeats. The spring of '58 and the Gamecocks dove into their schedule which read 24 games. At the ending of the season, Jacksonville stood 18-6.

The season of 1959 and the Lovrich 'wand of magic' worked overtime in propelling the Jaxmen to a sensational 20-5 seasonal banner. This also initiated the annual spring training trip to Louisiana which was taken for the second time last Spring.

COACH FRANK LOVRICH

That campaign was almost duplicated one season later when a 19-7 mark was tagged. Baseball was at its zenith in popularity, appeal and attention.

Last season, greatly hampered by rain which completely washed four games down the drain, the Gamecocks finished with a 12-3 mark. Combining to boost Lovrich's record here to a bulging 69-22 mark.

Coach Frank Lovrich has been a great friend to me and many, many other people on this campus. Throughout my three-year stay here he has been more than an acquaintance. He's been a friend of the truest calibre and sense of the word.

He's leaving for a year. And in a year, the 'Basket' will be leaving. But the admiration, devotion and appreciation of Coach Frank Lovrich is truly one thing it would take a canyon of dynamite to dislodge from my nature.

To Marry Or Not To Marry . .

To marry or not to marry before graduation? That's the big question college students have been asking during recent years since marriage before graduation has become an accepted practice. Married students now constitute a large part of the average student body on most campuses.

Iva Jo and Tommy Maddux of Collinsville and Albertville, seniors at Jacksonville State College, are typical of students who marry before graduation. They married during their junior year and are now in sight of their goal—graduation. Iva Jo will graduate on July 29 and Tommy will receive his degree in January. In addition to college degrees, they have also acquired a lovely little daughter, Susan, now seven months old.

How do married students manage? Tommy has a football scholarship; he works as a life-guard after classes during the summer; they live in the veterans' apartments; and their parents have helped out. Iva Jo dropped out of school before Susan was born but returned as soon as she was old enough to leave with neighbors in adjoining apartments.

She has majored in secretarial science and he in physical education. He will coach and teach after graduation, and she may work as a secretary to help out the family budget. She was "Miss Homecoming" in 1959 and has been active in Future Business Leaders, Civil Air Patrol and other campus groups. He has been on the college varsity football team for three years; is a member of the J Club and Ushers Club; was named "most valuable player" by his teammates on the football team; and was chosen for the All-Conference Team.

Asked if they would advise other people to marry before graduation, they said they "had no regrets but would advise others to wait".

A man who took great pride in his lawn had a heavy crop of dandelions. After trying every known device to get rid of them, he wrote the Department of Agriculture enumerating all the things he had tried, and ended, "What shall I do now?"

In due course came a reply, "We suggest you learn to love them."
